CHILDREN TO LEARN ABOUT THE FOURTH

Fots of West Harney to Move Their Parade to Seymour Lake This Year.

AT FOUR THIRTY TODAY

By MELLIFICIA—July 4. A wee kindergarten told me the other day, "I made a picture of George Washington at school." But when I asked her who was George Washington, she said, "Why, George Washington," and no further inquiry could elicit any information. There is a group of children in town, however, who not only know about the father of their country, but are doing what they can to preserve his patriotic spirit.

The children of the West Harney street region have for the last five years observed a safe and sane Fourth of July. Under the guidance of Mrs. George Mickel and others, they have staged the cleverest parades and patriotic celebrations without a suggestion of broken arms and burned fingers and blinded eyes. This year, as before, a grand pageant with floats, colors, tableaux, flags and singing has been prepared under the direction of Mrs. Mickel and Mrs. T. L. Combs. It is to be a bigger and better affair than ever before, it is said, because fifty children from Seymour Lake have collaborated to make the event a huge success. The parade will take place at Seymour Lake club grounds, starting at the playgrounds and moving to the club house. The hour set for the pageant is 4:30 this afternoon.

Says Anglo-Japanese Alliance as Firm as Rock

(Correspondence of The Associated Press.) Tokio, June 26.—Dr. Thomas Baty, an English authority on international law, who has arrived in Japan to take up the position of legal adviser to the foreign office, a post which was held for many years by H. W. Denison, an American, is quoted as saying that the future of the Anglo-Japanese alliance will be more productive of good than in the past. "The alliance is as firm as Gibraltar," he said. "The progress of civilization in the next century will hinge largely on the synthesis of the east and the west and in promoting this synthesis, the Anglo-Japanese alliance will be one of the chief factors."

Billy Byrne Plays With The Baby to Keep Cool

"Would you keep cool? It's easy," avers Billy Byrne of Orpheum fame. "Now, I don't go fishing, swimming or resort to a third party," says Billy. "I've got the finest scheme of all. When I get pretty warm I chase out to my son-in-law's and play with the baby. It's the greatest cooler in the world." But, as Billy neglected to mention, it isn't everybody that is a grandfather, or who can find a trusting mother who will consent to the use of her child as a hot weather temperer.

Queen-Mother Was Keen Friend of the Late Kitchener

(Correspondence of The Associated Press.)

London, June 26.—Perhaps none outside his immediate family was more grief-stricken at the news of Lord Kitchener's tragic death than Queen Alexandra. The attentiveness of the soldier to the queen-mother had long been notable, and there was a very strong bond of sympathy between these two, undoubtedly two of the loneliest figures prominent in contemporary London.

Indeed there was something pathetic in the lonely bachelorhood of the war secretary, who occasionally to his intimates, dropped remarks bearing on his lack of home and near relations. Not a week passed during the war in which he has not paid a visit to Marlborough house, where he would remain for long visits with Queen Alexandra, and come away with a long list of those combatants of whom her friends had made special inquiries. However, pressing the demands of the campaigns on the various fronts, he would always return within a few days with the desired information.

Lord Kitchener had promised to be the queen-mother's guest during the coming summer at Sandringham. He constantly had ladies to lunch at his seat in Kent, Broome Hall, near Canterbury, on Sundays, and would show them how he was developing his gardens and dilate to them on the beauties of his china. Younger women were conspicuous by their absence at these times, the guests being chiefly peeresses and experts on gardening, as well as the wives of men who had served under him in various campaigns.

At York house, St. James' palace, he gave a number of dinner parties to men only, the military element being not always conspicuous at these. He liked doctors, though caring nothing for actors or musicians. Several of the higher clergy in London enjoyed his friendship and hospitality. Lord Kitchener was personally well known to the owners of many of the more expensive curiosity shops in London. He would bargain over purchases, but did not possess the commercial sense, and in the end would always pay a good price, usually on his own initiative. The dealer generally received a check the day after delivery, the check being quite often post-dated a month or two.

Common Experience Now to Fly Across English Channel

(Correspondence of The Associated Press.) London, June 26.—Flying from the trenches in France to London and back again in the same day is becoming not uncommon experience for officers of the British army. Recently an officer left the trenches early one morning, crossed the English channel in an aeroplane and was in a London Turkish bath in a few minutes under four hours from the time he left the battlefield. Later another soldier did the trip in even shorter time, leaving the trenches in the early morning, Turkish bathing three and a half hours later in London, lunching at one of the leading hotels and arriving back "somewhere in France" the same evening.

Bibles for Soldiers. El Paso, Tex., July 3.—No soldier along the border is to be without a Bible if efforts now being made to provide each fighting man with a pocket size khaki bound volume at a cost of 3 cents are successful. The army chaplains who have been interested in the movement are lending their assistance to it. The Bibles are provided at cost.

LANGUAGE CHEST SPEAKS

Curious and Informing Sounds Carried to the Doctor Through the Stethoscope.

A doctor hears some curious noises when he places the stethoscope against your chest to test whether you are fit for the army or not. When the lungs are healthy, a pleasant breezy sound, soft in tone, is heard as the breath is drawn in and expelled. If the stethoscope conveys to his ear a gurgling or bubbling sound, the doctor knows that you are in what is known as the moist stage of bronchitis. In the dry stage of the same complaint the sound is a whistling, wheezy tone.

One of the signs of pneumonia is the soft crackling note that comes through the stethoscope. It is not unlike the sound that can be heard when your finger and thumb have touched a sticky substance, and you first place them together and then part them, holding them close to your ear. Doctors occasionally hear a dripping sound, and that tells them that air and water have got into some part of the chest where they have no right.—Pearson's.

A Flag of 315,000,000 Square Feet

If all the fabric used in one year's rubber products manufactured by the United States Rubber Company in the United States alone, was made into a flag, that flag would be approximately 315,000,000 square feet.

Or, it would make a foot-wide fabric band that would go three times around the world at the equator.

Another world's manufacturing record established for the United States by the United States Rubber Company.

The United States Rubber Company's output, the largest of all the rubber companies of the world, has Reached Its Vast Proportions

- 1—Because it effected great economies through quantity production.
- 2—Because it turned these savings, resulting from manufacturing economies, into still greater quality production.

These indisputable facts explain in part the steady and tremendous sales increases in
